No other class of people have to be so particular about the watches. Railroad men know what's what about watches, because in a sense it is a part of their business.

Now when they buy a watch what make do they generally choose? USUALLY A "BALL" WALTHAM, ELGIN, HOWARD.

What is good enough for a railroad man is good enough for anybody. We have all the above makes and will be glad to explain their good points to you. Prices that will suit you.

During the past week the entire Walapai tribe of Indians have been out in the foothills gathering desert currents. The fruit is being brought into town in great bags, the Indians having dried the berries and will use them during the summer months in the making of a refreshing drink. The berries are ground on a metate to a powder and are then used in mixing a drink that the Indians declare is delicious. Where the juice is expressed from the fresh berry it produces an extract similar to that of the kola berry.—Kingman Miner.

A discovery of mica has recently been made in the vicinity of Benson, but the discoverer is not ready to give full particulars as to exact location, extent of deposit, etc.

Besides its high value in transparent sheets, Mining Science says that scrap mica is utilized in the manufacture of a superior quality of boiler lagging, a matt of finely divided mica flakes forming a fireproof covering that has sufficient strength to be durable, not disintegrating like some other materials, and excellent asbestos and magnesia compounds as a non-conductor of heat.—Benson Press.

George Brown, formerly a resident of Jerome Junction, and a railroad employe of the United Verde & Pacific, was recently bitten by a hydrophobia skunk in southern Arizona near Morenci, and adopted one of the most novel and drastic methods ever known to cure himself of the effects of the deadly virus. After he was bitten on the middle finger of his left hand, he whipped out his six shooter and raising his hand to the right elevation, and about two feet from his body, blazed away. The first joint was ripped off and the bullet in its range tore away the flesh of the other finger on the left side. This heroic method probably saved Brown's life.

As the result of flights made by Charles K. Hamilton in Douglas and later at El Paso during the course of which he flew into Mexico in his biplane, a treaty is being negotiated between the state departments of the United States and Mexico governing aviation in the two countries. This is said to be the first aerial treaty to be adopted by governments of the world.

Under the terms of the treaty now being negotiated by Secretary of State Knox and the Mexican government, it will be necessary for any aviators passing over the international boundary line to come down to earth and register their names and machines before they will be permitted to traverse the border.

W. H. Sisson was returned to the Territorial Prison, Thursday, to serve out his term, by order of Chief Justice Kent, upon the ground that his release was obtained through fraud and was, therefore, void. The prisoner had originally been sentenced to a life term which was subsequently commuted to ten years by Gov. Kibbey. A few weeks since an attorney brought habeas corpus proceedings before Chief Justice Kent, introducing a purported copy of the records of the trial court which showed Sisson had not pleaded to the indictment, therefore had not been legally tried. With that evidence before him the Judge could not do otherwise than release the prisoner. It subsequently developed that the trial court record had been falsified in the copy submitted to Judge Kent. Under the commitment Sisson will have one more year to serve, from the first of next November.—Blade.

When the statehood bill passes the senate and goes to the president for his signature, the signature will be affixed with a Douglas, Ariz. pen symbolical of the mineral resources of the new state.

That statehood will be granted is the belief of members of the chamber of commerce and miners and their faith is amply demonstrated by the order which the local body placed yesterday with Erickson & Howe, local jewelers, for a pen to be presented to President Taft with which to sign the measure when it is presented to him after the triumphal passage through the law-making assemblies.

A water color design of the pen was presented to the chamber by the jewelers. The handle of the pen will be made of copper, the butt will be of silver, while the point will be of gold. This will represent the mineral wealth of the new state. On the butt near the point where the presidential fingers will grip the little writing instrument will be engraved the coat of arms of the state.

The pen will be completed shortly and will be sent to Washington that it may act as a strong reminder that Arizona hopes and expects that the boon she craves will be granted in the immediate future.

A Bad Ordinance.

The chauffeur of the chemical engine in the Summit, N. J. fire department was fined for breaking the speed ordinance while going to a fire. Fine state of things, when they fine a fireman for scorching.

The sooner the cranks that passed that ordinance are burned up the better that town will be off. In all Arizona when a fire occurs if any one of us get run over by the fire department run to save lives and property we are sure glad of it.

The only trouble with our gallant fire boys is that they can't get there as soon as they would like.

Fire Fiends.

The fire fiend seems to be after the forestry reserves and officials just at present. It has now begun to go after individual foresters.

Word was received at the local forestry station yesterday that the residences of Ranger R. D. Rogers, at Canilla, has burned to the ground. All of the contents of the house were destroyed in the fire.

The fire which destroyed the house occurred Friday night and its origin is not known. The information which has thus far reached the local office is meager, and it is not known what the extent of the loss is or whether it was covered by insurance.—Star.

Russian Game Of Jackpotevitch.

Abraham Schiff, who was arrested with several friends in Newark for gambling, was arraigned before Judge Herr in the second criminal court in that city yesterday, and made the plea that they were merely playing a Russian game called "one thousand."

"Explain the game," said Judge Herr.

"Well your honor," said Schiff, "you match cards together. If you get two threes, why that counts more than if you only got two twos. Then you say that you think the threes are pretty good, and put a chip down so as to remember what you said. Then, if you can find some more threes, or match up another pair, why then your hand is so much the better."

"The game sounds familiar," mused Judge Herr. Suppose you get a hand that consisted only of diamonds—would that be a good hand?"

"Very good, your honor."

"Now suppose in your hand the cards were all of one suit and ran from the ace to the ten spot. Would that be better?"

Oh, your honor, it would be lovely," exclaimed Schiff, rubbing his hands joyfully.

"And I suppose you'd have to put up a lot of chips to remember what a good hand you had, I've heard of the game. The Russians call it jackpotevitch. Fifty dollars fine, and don't play anymore poker."—New York Times.
